Well, we come to the end of another busy week at Priory and this week has been all about books! Our 'Take One Book' week has seen all the children in school working with the book 'Town is by the Sea' written by Joanne F Schwartz and illustrated by Sydney Smith. The book follows the story of a boy enjoying a summer's day in his hometown at the seaside whilst his Dad is busy digging for coal deep under the sea. The children have enjoyed reading and completing activities based on the book whilst also linking the mining theme to the history of mining in Gedling. We are lucky to have Dave Jozsko, our former caretaker in school today to share his stories of mining and fingers crossed we will be Skyping the illustrator of the book this afternoon, time difference allowing, as he is currently in Canada.

My huge thanks go out to Miss Fisher for the amazing artwork she has created of the book cover that can be seen in our Reception area. Thank you also to Miss Dhillon for leading on this week and choosing such a great book! I walked around school Tuesday afternoon, it was so lovely to see all the classes working on a variety of activities linked to the book, and to see how engaged the children were with their learning. Yesterday was World Book Day and many thanks to you all for getting together the costumes for the day – there were some creative ideas. Some of you joined us today in the Book Café and big thanks to the bakers who brought in the delicious cakes.

In other news, we were treated to a visit on Wednesday lunchtime by Mrs Corkhill and her new baby daughter. She is gorgeous and the family are enjoying their new addition. Enjoy the weekend and I look forward to another busy week ahead. Do not forget- Comic Relief is next Friday! Mrs Brown.
